LONG ISLAND CITY

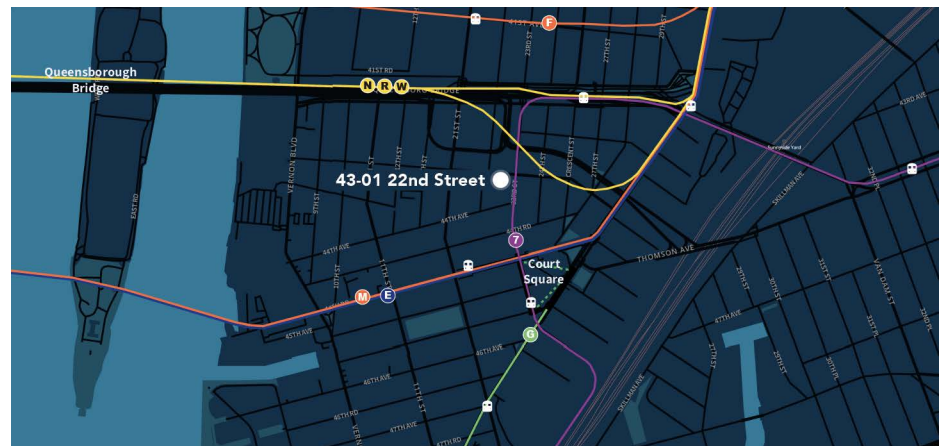

Once home to numerous factories and bakeries, Long Island City on the western edge of Queens and positioned just over the Queensboro Bridge has seen a building boom unlike any other part of New York City. At night its skyline stands tall and proud, with new developments and renovated industrial buildings, housing luxury lofts and commercial space rivaling the best in Manhattan.

The trend of businesses relocating from Manhattan to Long Island City began in 1990 with the building of One Court Square, also known as the Citigroup Building. Citigroup continues to maintain offices in the building. Other major tenants in the area include JetBlue Airways, Ralph Lauren and Uber just to name a few.

With continued development in the area, Bloomingdale's will also be moving much of its corporate operations to LIC. Numerous smaller tech firms have also made their homes in Long Island City and enjoy close proximity to the new Cornell Tech campus located on Roosevelt Island.

Along with stunning renovated loft buildings and gleaming residential towers, the area is known for its waterfront parks, its established arts community and its booming artisanal scene with LIC Flea. MoMA PS1, one of the country's largest contemporary art institutions, and the Fisher Landau Center for Art are also found in the district. With an abundance of dining options, from waterfront dining to local breweries, pubs and bistros, LIC has it all.

N, R, W, 7, E, F and M trains serve Long Island City from Manhattan, with service to Brooklyn provided by the G train. The Long Island City and Hunterspoint Avenue stations of the Long Island Rail Road are also located within Long Island City.

ABOUT OWNERSHIP

Committed to building a better New York since 1952, GFP Real Estate is a vertically integrated owner, operator, property manager and developer of commercial real estate in the New York Tri-State Region. With over 55 buildings and more than 12.8 million square feet under Ownership, GFP's portfolio includes some of the City's most iconic real estate assets, including the Flatiron Building (175 Fifth Avenue), The Film Center Building (630 Ninth Avenue), 515 Madison Avenue, 1560 Broadway and 40 Worth Street. In addition to managing and leasing its own properties, GFP also provides management and leasing services to third-party building owners, representing an additional 20 buildings that cover more than 4 million square feet. The combined GFP portfolio of both owned and managed properties totals 75 buildings and approximately 16 million square feet, cementing the firm's reputation as one of New York City's premiere real estate owners and operators.
